Hi:

I hope you have been able to enjoy the great spring weather. I have been traveling a lot with stops in Detroit, California, and Guatemala. Besides photographing for work, I was exploring new locations and planning my coming workshops with stops in great places like Greece, Montana and Cape Cod. You can always read about my coming workshops at: <http://www.davidhwells.com/workshops/index.html>

Here are a couple new images from a shoot I did on wind turbine generators near Palm Springs, California.

I am very excited about the latest exhibition of my work from India. You can read more about that (and RSVP for the reception) at: <http://www.tinyurl.com/DavidWellsCalumetExhibit>. The exhibition at the H.P Gallery at Calumet's New York City location at 22 W. 22nd Street, runs from July 6 through July 28. There will be a closing reception on Tuesday, July 28, 2009 at 6:00 PM. If you are going to be in New York City in July, I hope you will take the time to see it.

I have been continuing my blogging often based on feedback and ideas sent in by viewers of The Wells Point. See those entries starting at: <http://thewellspoint.com/archive/>. In April alone, I wrote about: "The art of editing – The editing of art," "Spring means motor drives and motorcycles," "The important process of naming a project," and "What kind of tools do I use and why?" In April, I posted two new pod casts, one exploring the working lives of call-center workers in India and another on planning your photography when working at twilight. Here are a couple images from those two pod casts.

I hope you enjoyed my latest monthly newsletter. If you know people who would be interested in getting these, please encourage them to sign up at <http://thewellspoint.com/wp-login.php?action=register>

Thanks,

David H. Wells
