December is here with a blast of cold weather, at least in New England. I have been traveling for work, for teaching and to do more photography for my project on foreclosures. I have also been working very hard on Photo Synesi, <http://www.photosynesi.com/> our online service connecting aspiring photographers to professionals, providing them with individual and insightful critiques on their photographs.

We have been live nearly two months and amazing things are happening. We already had a host of customers — who are getting in-depth feedback and advice from the world's best photographers/teachers. Here's what they're saying:

"I was excited to get comments from Michael... I thought that [his] review was excellent, as were comments regarding where to go next. I'm very satisfied with that. I enjoyed the Photo Synesi experience and will most likely submit images again."

You can get feedback on your own photographs through <http://www.photosynesi.com/> In time for the holidays, we're providing a discount

— see the details below. A few of our photographers/reviewers have already been blogging about us! Read what they had to say...

The best way to understand how useful the reviews can be is to see the highlights from a review by Martha Rial. There, you can see a sample of the images from the project and hear her reaction and feedback to those images.

This month, we're running another promotion for Photo Synesi... but only today! Tweet or update your Facebook status:

TWITTER » @photosynesi is giving away 25% off Extensive Reviews today (12/8). Re-tweet and follow to get one.

Otherwise, in November, I also wrote and posted blog entries titled:

- Introducing Photo Synesi!
- The making of a grumpy old photographer
- Creativity and Solitude
- Open sourcing the business side of photography \(part two of two\)

I also posted a new podcast in November:

- "Akka \(the movie\)" — This short movie explores my daughter and my niece's experience living and working in India during the summer of 2010, which they spent volunteering at the Parikrma school in Bangalore, India.

In November, I also posted another blog entry on the B&H InSights blog / site, which you can read at:

All my entries there can be seen at: <http://www.bhinsights.com/blog/18391>

To escape the winter cold I am heading off to Asia for a couple assignments and some workshop teaching (as well as some personal work.) In January, I will be in Vietnam. Speaking of good food, in June I will also be teaching in Italy.

Images from Italy and Vietnam are seen in this newsletter. The Italy class, A photography workshop in Light and Shadow, Moment and Motion, June 12-22, 2011 has only two spots left, so if you are interested, read more at: <http://www.davidhwells.com/Italy/index.html> The Vietnam class is also filling up fast (and approaching soon,) so if you are interested, read more at <http://www.objectifs.com.sg/ed-photography.htm> You can always find my upcoming classes on the "workshops" page of my site:

<http://www.davidhwells.com/workshops/index.html>

I hope you enjoyed my latest monthly newsletter. I welcome your feedback. If you know people who would be interested in getting these, please encourage them to sign up at <http://thewellspoint.com/wp-login.php?action=register>

Thanks,

David H. Wells
