November has arrived, before I expected it, but that happens to me a lot these days. I am just back from New York City and the PhotoPlus Expo show where I saw old friends and new gear. At the end of September and during October, I was also lucky enough to continue photographing inside foreclosed houses, for my ongoing project, "Foreclosed Dreams." I did these latest shoots with the assistance of friends and former students. I am still looking to expand the project further across the country, so if you or (anyone you know) can help me gain access to foreclosed homes, please send me a note. Photos from the "Foreclosed Dreams" project are part of this newsletter.

Some of my work from "Foreclosed Dreams" was recently part of a piece on the New York Times web site, in the "Opinionator" section. See: <http://opinionator.blogs.nytimes.com/2010/10/12/picturing-the-crisis/> A portfolio of images, including one of mine, can be found at http://www.nytimes.com/slideshow/2010/10/12/opinion/20101013\_LR\_Foreclosure-3.html Then the same work became part of the conversation that made up a segment of the public radio show, On The Media. You can read the transcript for that at: <http://www.onthemediamedia.org/transcripts/2010/10/22/01> or you can hear the whole radio piece at: <http://www.onthemediamedia.org/episodes/2010/10/22/segments/158327>

In October, I also wrote and posted blog entries titled:

- Open sourcing the business side of photography \(part one of two\)
- Just say no
- Why photograph for money?
- What I learned at the California Photo Festival

I also posted a new podcast in October:

- "The thinking behind my photo-essay "Foreclosed Dreams" which I take you with me as I am photographing part of my ongoing photo-essay "Foreclosed Dreams."

In October, I also posted two more blog entries on the B&H InSights blog / site, which you can read at:

Later this fall and winter I have a series of trips coming up where I will continue mixing my two favorite activities, teaching and photographing. You can always find all my upcoming classes on the "workshops" page of my site: <http://www.davidhwells.com/workshops/index.html> I hope you enjoyed my latest monthly newsletter. I welcome your feedback. If you know people who would be interested in getting these, please encourage them to sign up at <http://thewellspoint.com/wp-login.php?action=register>

Thanks,

David H. Wells
